

The Vision for the Future

The TBS Master Plan document focuses on a number of new strategies to strengthen and enrich our congregation. This bold and creative vision will allow us to meet the needs of our current congregation as well as generations to come. We will grow our congregation through the enhancements envisioned in this Master Plan, as long as we are prepared to raise funds to enhance our Temple's facilities.

Our Living Legacy Capital Campaign is a two-year program to raise funds to enhance our campus, build space that is safer, greener, multi-functional, and more welcoming to study, elevate the spirit, serve the community, and deepen our connections to each other.

1. Why are we engaging in a capital campaign?

It is time to build for today's and future Generations

- Together, we have identified a number of areas that require renovation, enhancements and replacement.
- The outdated school building, with leaky roofs and poor grading, requires numerous structural changes to repair the extensive water damage that accompanies each rainstorm.
- We cannot accommodate those who wish to meet at TBS on the weekend because we are out of meeting and classroom space.
- Our administrative office spaces are grossly inadequate to serve staff and congregation needs.
- And our heating and cooling systems are antiquated and inordinately expensive to operate, and in desperate need of replacement.

2. What will we be doing?

Two years ago, we began by asking our congregants what facilities they want for themselves, for their children and grandchildren, their friends and the community at large. During focus groups we confirmed that congregants want a central Jewish gathering place that meets their collective needs.

Among the many enhancements, the plan calls for:

- a new, multi-purpose education building
- a beautiful remodeled sanctuary
- a chapel for intimate, spiritual gatherings
- an eastern entrance for easier access
- an outdoor meeting and gathering space
- a youth lounge
- more recreational spaces
- a "living room" space at the new campus entrance to assure that everyone is greeted and made to feel welcome as they arrive into the new administrative space and our campus

3. How can I learn more and stay abreast of the campaign?
